

Yogawa Michi (Tsumago juku ~ Nojiri Staion)

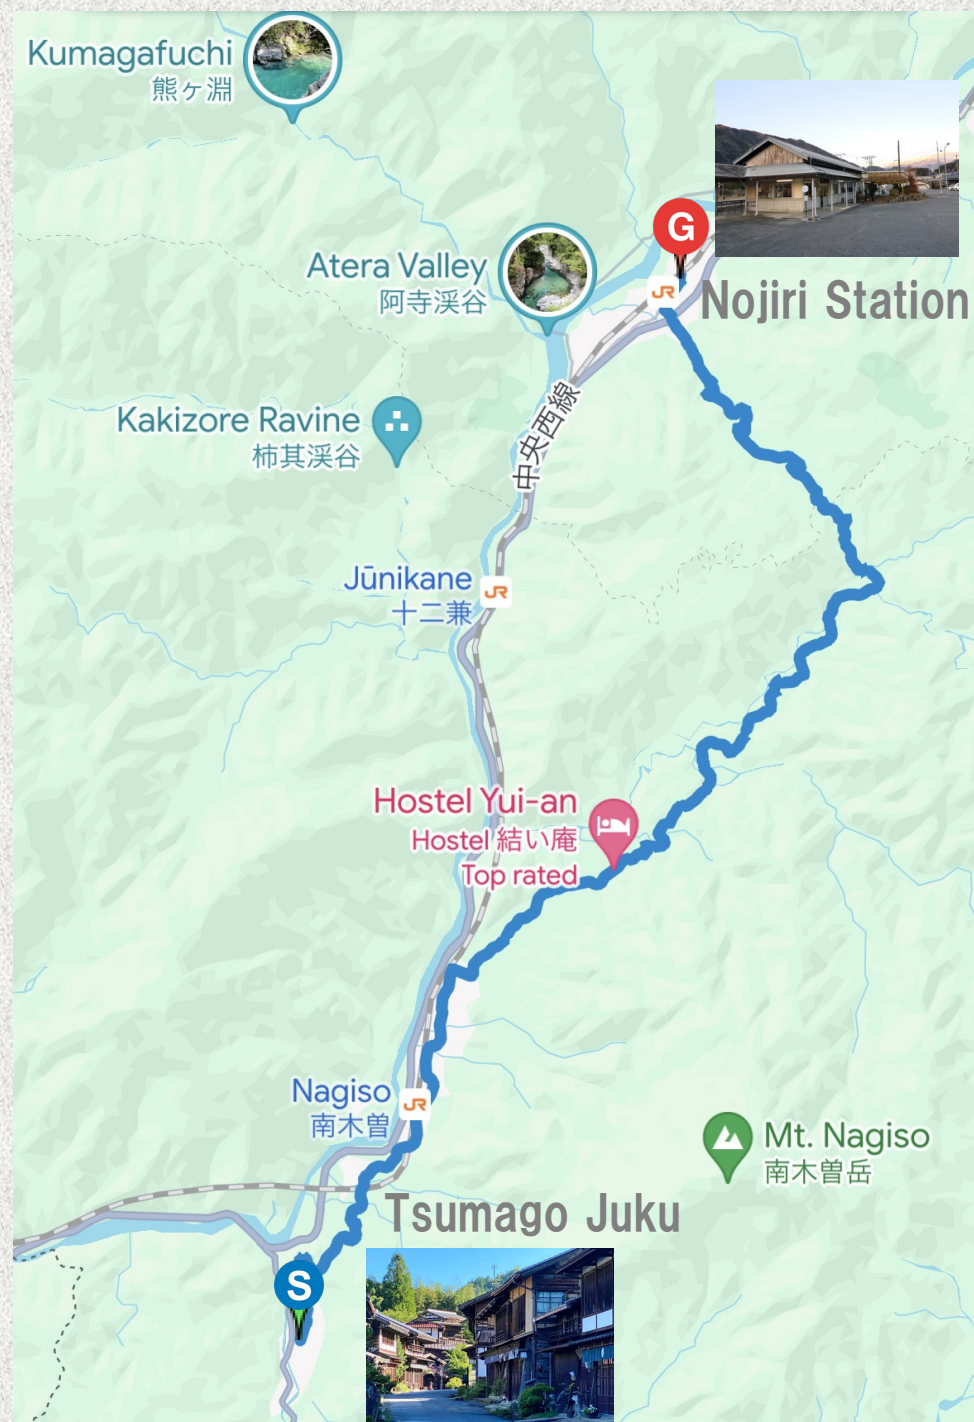

The walking route from Tsumago-juku to Nojiri Station.

This route starts in the charming streets of Tsumago-juku, continues along the Nakasendo, and then ventures into the Yogawa Path, walking through beautiful scenery woven by history and nature.

The Yogawa Path served as a detour route during the Edo period when the Nakasendo was impassable due to floods of Kiso river, linking numerous historical sites that remain to this day.

Breathtaking attractions await travelers, including the gentle Eikyō-ji Enku Buddhas, the mystical stone Buddha group of Amida-dō, and the magnificent cedar trees at Hakusan Shrine.

This path, once trodden by people of the past as a detour, offers a 5-hour hiking course to Nojiri Station, providing new discoveries and inspiring moments for its visitors.
